Monuments and Sites

The text below explains the categories listed in the status column of the monuments and sites table and summarises some of the provisions of the National Monuments Acts 1930-1994. For a fuller summary of key provisions of the Acts and a definition of the overall policy on their application please refer to 'Framework and Principles for the Protection of the Archaeological Heritage', published by the Department of Arts Heritage, Gaeltacht and the Islands in 1999 and available from Government Publications Sales Office, Molesworth Street, Dublin 2.

1. National Monuments subject to a Preservation Order

Section 8 of the 1930 Act provides that where it appears to the Minister that a monument, which in the opinion of the Minister is a national monument, is in danger of being or is actually being destroyed, injured or removed, or is falling into decay, the Minister may by order (i.e. a Preservation Order) undertake the preservation of such a monument.

Ministerial consent is required under Section 14 (1) of the 1930 Act (as amended) to 'excavate dig, plough or otherwise disturb the ground within, around, or in proximity to any such national monument'.

2. National Monuments subject to a Temporary Preservation Order

Section 4(1) of the 1954 Act provides that where it appears to the Minister that a monument which in his or her opinion is a national monument is in immediate danger of injury or destruction then the Minister may by order (i.e. Temporary Preservation Order) undertake the preservation of such monument. Section 4(2) of the 1954 Act provides that a temporary preservation order shall, unless revoked by order of the Minister, remain in force for a period of six months and then expire.
